Coventry Cathedral Chorus was formed in 1963, under the name Saint Michael's Singers, shortly after the consecration of the new Coventry Cathedral. The name was changed in 2017 to more closely align the choir with its home and to define the nature of the choir. The chorus is regarded as one of the UK's leading choral societies, and promotes its own season of concerts in Coventry Cathedral and at other venues in the English Midlands area.

The choir's musical director is Paul Leddington Wright, well-known in both the UK and USA as a conductor, composer and arranger.

Coventry Cathedral Chorus is committed to upholding and maintaining the great choral tradition, bringing the best choral music from the 16th to the 21st century to audiences in the West Midlands and further afield. We endeavour to create partnerships with like-minded singers and players and to use professional orchestras and soloists wherever we can. This commitment requires time and money.

You can help us by becoming a patron of the choir. As well as giving exclusive benefits to members, it is a way of supporting the work we do, ensuring the future of the choir and allowing us to maintain the high standard of concerts that we present.

With annual membership from only £25, Patrons benefit from discounted concert tickets, reserved seats and invitations to special events, including two interval receptions per season. You will also have an opportunity to attend some of the chorus's 'teaching' rehearsals led by our Musical Director, Paul Leddington Wright and be able to take advantage of subsidised travel to most of our 'away' concerts.

To find out more about becoming a patron, please contact Yvette Kingston, Patrons' Co-ordinator, on 07776 201471 or patrons@coventrycathedralchorus.com.

Alternatively you can sign up straight away by downloading, completing and returning an application form which is on our website:
